August 22, 2022

Merchants using AurusPay can now access Riskified's machine-learning, end-to-end risk management solution

NEW YORK--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Aug. 22, 2022-- Riskified Ltd., (NYSE:RSKD), a fraud management platform enabling frictionless eCommerce, and Aurus, Inc., a unified payments platform, today announced a partnership which will enable merchants to effectively manage their payments through all channels and enjoy the protection of a risk management solution with a full chargeback guarantee.

Merchants using Aurus now have access to Riskified's proprietary automated risk-based decisioning solution, which takes on the merchant's liability for fraud. Powered by rich transaction data networked across hundreds of merchants, Riskified's machine-learning platform enables greater accuracy and the ability to stay ahead of evolving fraud trends. Riskified has a proven track record of helping merchants increase revenue and reduce costs.

A recent Forrester TEI study found that a composite Riskified customer using the solution generated $71.3M in total benefits, including savings of $13.1 million in chargeback costs over a three-year period. Merchants interviewed for the study also noted that since adopting Riskified, their fraud operations teams were able to shed between 75%-88% of their workloads, largely from manual review and updates, and can now focus on more meaningful work.

"Aurus aims to be the preferred one-stop solution to simplify the payments process for retailers," said Rahul Mutha, CEO of Aurus Payments. "Delivering return on investment for merchants is our mainstay goal. Our partnership with Riskified will deliver returns to merchants by bringing together the best of both omnichannel payments and fraud management, enabling merchants to offer innovative and efficient customer experiences."
